Hello Brother and Sisters of the American Postal Workers Union.

I know we all are eager to find out what is the state of the Contract Arbitration. The National President, Mark Dimondstein recently stated that he had hope for a decision from Arbitrator Stephen B. Goldberg by mid-July. I believe we are just about at the end of what we hope will have a Contract that will be beneficial to the Postal Workers. The National President is confident that by the end of July, we will know the outcome the Contract Arbitration.

NOTE: AT PRESS TIME WE HAVE A CONTRACT. GO TO THE APWU WEBSITE FOR MORE INFORMATION.

HOSTILE WORK ENVIRONMENT

We are at the GWY as well as at the DNDC addressing constant Hostile Workplace. We are addressing our member’s concerns regarding these senseless attacks by Management. We would like those that are mistreated by your supervisors, to provide the Union Stewards with your statement and file a grievance. We don’t have to accept this blatant mistreatment by Management. Also our PSE’s have come under attack at the DNDC and we will not continue to allow Management to scare them into silence. The PSE’s are the future of the Postal Service and the APWU, this Union will fight for you too. Our jobs will not be threatened because Managers are having a bad day.

FLINT WATER DONATION DELIVERED

On June 27, 2016 your Secretary of Treasurer Tamika Johnson-Smith and I delivered an $800.00 dollar check to the United Way of Genessee County. The donations were given from the hearts of the APWU-DDAL members. There to receive that check was Jamie Gaskins Chief Executive Officer, and Teresa McGinnis UAW Labor Liaison. The United Way wanted us to make sure that we thanked each and everyone of members for the gift. It was stated in our short time there, that the water was still not safe to drink. That statement bothered me because we have been hearing in the media that the water was safe. However, I want to say thank you also to everyone, it was an awesome gesture.

aware of the fact that our words might have on someone else. We also need to understand that words we often utter carelessly or while in an emotional state can have a lasting impact.

Before I discuss the ways our language can be offensive, I want to comment on something I’ve heard many times: “This is a free country. I can say anything I want. Haven’t you ever heard of free speech?”

The First Amendment to our Constitution is one of the most important documents ever written. Freedom of expression is the very bedrock of a democratic society, and it’s one of the main reasons we’ve achieved greatness as a country. While I strongly favor free speech and just as strongly oppose censorship, I also favor good taste, consideration for the feelings of others, and what used to be called common courtesy.

We can no longer use utter words that harm one another or harm the very Membership that has fought so hard to make your job safer, better and more comfortable talking to others about personal matters.

The Computerized Cognitive Behavioral Therapy Program (CCBT) is a computerized self-directed program that helps individuals improve their state of mind. The program takes overwhelming problems and breaks the problems into smaller parts so we can recognize how the problem is affecting us physically and emotionally and how better to deal with it.

There are five categories built into this web-based therapy program. Program number 1: Anxiety, phobias and panic attacks. Program number 2: Insomnia and sleep problems. Program number 3: Mild to moderate depression. Program number 4: Alcohol and substance abuse. Program number 5: Obsessive-compulsive disorder.

The therapy is given in modules so the participants can progress at their own pace. The program has been a huge success. Recently, a confidential study was done showing that CCBT users showed a 50 to 80 percent decline in their symptoms when going through the program. Registration is not required, but encouraged to track personal progress. Users who register cannot be identified. You create a fake user name and password, give your gender and birth date, and then you are ready to use the program confidentially.

To try CCBT, visit EAP4you.com and link to web-based care under the benefits tab on the tool bar. If you have some problems you are dealing with and you are uncomfortable on the personal one on EAP basis, please try the Computerized Cognitive Behavioral Therapy Program, you don’t need to struggle alone. Again, visit EAP4you.com to get started.
Greetings Brothers and Sisters;
I must let you know it is truly an honor and a privilege to serve the membership of our great union. Sure the days are long and dealing with management is getting more difficult every day, but my job it is truly a labor of love. It is also with great honor that the Michigan Postal Workers Union has recognized some of Detroit’s talent. In May, our very own Local President, Keith M. Combs, Sr., was elected by the State MPWU into the position of Human Relations/Injury Compensation Director. This is a lot of work for Keith, but it is what we do as officers – helping others. The Michigan Postal Workers Union also elected Brother Sterling Bouier, as your State Maintenance Craft Director and Tamika Johnson-Smith, from Detroit, was elected as our Local Area representative. Last, I was elected from our Local Membership meeting, sister Jane Duggan was honored for her many years of service to the union. She was given a beautiful clock by the DDAL. Thank you Jane, for your many loyal years of service to the post office and as a unionist. These are just a few things this amazing women has accomplished over the years.

- Started as a manual clerk in 1980.
- Served as a NALC station steward for years until entering the Maintenance craft in 1988.
- In 1989, was promoted to general mechanic level 5, and in 1991 promoted to MPE level 7.
- The first 8 years, she was the only women as a MPE mechanic at the GWY.
- In 1989, she became a APWU steward and Step 2 designee until 2008.
- Served as the assistant maintenance craft director from 1994-2003.
- Elected as our all craft Recording Secretary for our local.
- In 2003, she was part of a team of 4 that won the APWU-USPS joint training project “The Pilot Program”, training participants from the Maintenance, clerk and MVS craft here in Michigan, the program was expanded to other states as well.
- In 2004, served one term as the Michigan Postal workers Union Maintenance Craft Director, elected again in 2004 and 2006, served thru 2008.
- Was the only female officer in the APWU-DDAL and MPWU.
- An accomplished writer, her article on FMLA in 2007, excerpts were printed in the APWU National tabloid.
- Not only a true unionist, she has promoted women’s rights and history thru fund-raisers, her writing and award winning photography.

At the June 12th membership meeting, sister Jane Duggan was honored for her many years of service to the union. She was given a beautiful clock by the DDAL. Thank you Jane, for your many loyal years of service to the post office and as a unionist. These are just a few things this amazing women has accomplished over the years.

- Elected as our all craft Recording Secretary for our local.
- In Unity! Congratulations to all of our elected officers, and for moving our Local forward.

Hostile Working Environment
A hostile work environment must be addressed by all of us. It seems to be common in all of our workplaces in one form or another. Some managers specifically, deliberately and strongly drive the workplace into creating a hostile and negative working environment for employees. In addition to the Main Post Office and the Network Distribution Center, we continue to face work related problems in our PAE MTECH Facility as well as many of our Outingly locations. When management creates a hostile work environment, they are failing to provide a safe and healthy working environment for employees. Management is required under our Bargaining Agreements to provide a healthy – stress free working environment. Some managers seem to do the opposite. Unfortunately, in our District, management promotes the philosophy of a managing team which rules by threats and intimidates. This, they believe, enforces a stable workplace and peak productivity. Unfortunately, this is furthest from the facts. If management would gather available statistics, they would realize the more stressful a workplace, the more productivity suffers. This causes a rise in unscheduled leave and sick leave as well as additional work related injuries and illnesses. Management, in their ongoing quest in attempting to improve service, seem to run their operations with blinders on, ignoring most aspects of the job we employees perform every day and know very well. I am often questioned as to what creates a hostile working environment. Well, it involves and can include, many different things. A supervisor who withholds your pay, or withholds your requested leave, simply by saying that “we can do it”. A manager who abuses their authority in their position because they know upper management won’t correct their misbehavior as long as they get their employees to get their work done. Supervisors who ‘gossip’ about other employees in front of the workforce is always a major problem. Supervisors who ‘play favorites’ among workers, not treating all employees equally or the same. Upper managers who know their management team is doing wrong, yet refuse to address or correct the improper conduct seems to be a growing problem. The list goes on and on. It can be one issue or a combination of several discrepancies. The problem is that management knows better, and they know that many of them don’t belong in supervision in the first place. Sure, there are many supervisors who know their job and adhere to the contract, doing their best to treat their employees with dignity and respect. It is not those supervisors who create hostile working environments. It is the supervisor who goes out of their way to make the working environment miserable for those of us who just want to come to work and make a living. If you suspect your workplace is one of the many facilities run with hostility, see your Union Steward. Speak-up and Speak-out. Grievances can be filed as well as safety violations. It is up to all of us to do our part in making changes in our workplaces.

USPS Overtime – Always an Issue
One would think that with clear contract language regarding the assignment of overtime, and hundreds of grievance settlements and arbitration awards, management would get things right when it comes to scheduling overtime assignments. Management violates the Collective Bargaining Agreement because they refuse to work OTDL employees penalty time. The contract is clear. Prior to scheduling a Postal Support Employee over eight hours in a service day, those employees available from the OTDL must be utilized, up to 12 hours. Prior to scheduling a NON-OTDL employee to work ANY overtime, the OTDL must be utilized up to 12 hours in a service day. Those employees who do not want to work overtime should not be required to do so. In cases of an emergency, once the OTDL is maximized, management may force employees not on the list to work overtime on a rotating basis, with the first opportunity assigned to the junior employee. Call you Steward if these rules are not followed.

Best wishes my friends.

A Couple Of Things To Think About

Since my last article a couple of matters have come up which I want to bring to the reading membership.

When the 2010-2015 Collective Bargaining Agreement was ratified by the membership several years ago, a new category of employee was created. This category of employee is the Postal Support Employee, or “PSE”. This is a non-career employee category which the APWU agreed upon, and which replaced the old category of “casual” or “NTE” employee. The “casual” employees were appointed to 90-day terms, up to two per year, and were considered the “supplemental” work force. They had no contractual protections of any kind, they worked more or less at management’s whim, and the union could not represent them or organize them as members. Often casual employees were resented by the full-time career employees, who felt that casuals “took their overtime” or “got more hours” than the career employees. Casual employees, who got paid only a fraction of the hourly rate of career employees, were indeed often scheduled by management to work instead of career employees. Also, casual employees got no leave or benefits of any kind.

A great source of workers for management: they were cheaper by the hour, they got no benefits, they had no contract to protect them and no union to represent them, and they could be fired more or less at will by management. But the 2010-2015 contract changed all that. Casuals were eliminated as an employee category. In their place were created the Postal Support Employees. PSEs have contractual protections, PSEs have a union to represent them, PSEs have leave and access to health insurance, and PSEs are the body of employees from which all future career hiring in APWU will be done. PSEs, in short, are the career postal employees of the future. Many PSEs have already been converted to career positions throughout the offices represented by the Detroit District Area Local. They are our union brothers and sisters. But our brothers and sisters are not always being treated well. Now, it is true that the PSE’s are flexible-schedule employees, subject to working different hours of duty from one day to the next, as well as working “split” shifts which have them working a few hours in the morning at one location, ending their tour for a few hours, then resuming for a few more hours at a different location in the evening, for a workaround spread over twelve hours for which they get paid for seven. This used to happen to the old part-time-flexible (PTF) category of employees, particularly if you worked at a city station or associate office. Many of us old-timers came up that way, hoping for the day that we’d “make regular” and such awful work scheduling would end.

Our PSE brothers and sisters are “The Help,” and they could be fired more or less at will by their supervisors, I was told that.

that PSEs are “The Help” and they could be scheduled any way that management pleased. I was also told incidentally, that City Carrier Assistants (CCA’s) were “The Help” as well. I find the term “The Help” to be demeaning and offensive (especially if you saw the movie of the same name) and to reflect a condescending and uncaring management attitude toward our non-career employees.

I brought this up to a manager, who even defended the use of the term “The Help.”

Local officers of this union have met with postal management and expressed our concern for the working environment in which the work force is to be treated even worse than we were, that “I had to go through it, now it’s your turn”, or “I shouldn’t have to do that job, let the new kid do it”.

Some of this thinking is reflected in the language which union leaders utilize for a term like “The Help” to be openly used, and I am happy to report that upper management has rejected both the term, and the thinking.

licenses or “CPL’s”. The State of Michigan has an increasingly permissive policy toward issuance of CPL’s, and many people have determined to obtain one. But if you hold a CPL, you had to pass training during which you were advised that there are certain places where you cannot carry a concealed pistol, even if you have a permit to carry. Also, by the way, these locations are printed on the back of your CPL license itself, in case you should forget. Notwithstanding the locations excluded under state law, where you cannot carry your concealed pistol, you may not legally carry your concealed pistol anywhere on POSTAL PROPERTY AT ANY TIME unless you are a law enforcement officer.

This includes while on postal duty in the field, while driving a postal vehicle, or otherwise in a duty status (on the clock). Recently a couple of incidents took place which bring attention to this matter, and which I want to warn our members about.

In one case, an employee who works at a plant, and who holds a legal CPL license, was recently at a company picnic. She had driven to the mailing house in an official vehicle. For some reason, this postal employee was wearing a holstered pistol, which employees at the mailing house saw when the postal employee’s clothing moved. A complaint was filed by the mailing house employees, city police were called, then postal police and postal inspectors. The postal employee was given a non-union member who failed to ask for a steward when questioned by police and inspectors, and was let go, which was seriously incriminating. This employee is presently off work.

In another case, an employee at an office made some unwise remarks. Training at that office was being conducted concerning “Active Shooter” situations, and what employees are to do if a situation arises where an armed perpetrator enters a postal facility. I’ve had this training myself.

However, in this case, the one employee announced to all the other employees in the training, that if a shooter entered the office, he’d go out to his car, get his gun, and take the shooter out. Now this did nothing to reassure the co-workers, quite the contrary, they were alarmed to hear that this man had a gun in his car, particularly in light of other recent incidents which had occurred in the past. This matter is now under investigation.

So here’s the point. Having a Michigan Issued Concealed Pistol License gives you no, I repeat no, right to carry your weapon at work.

Hello Union Brothers and Sisters, same issue, different day. As we should all know, in Maintenance Craft each employee fills out and completes a PAR (preferred assignment register) form. On this form, an employee chooses job assignments in numerical order according to their preferred choice. The PAR remains in effect until such time an employee submits a new one, new jobs are created and added, or the employee is placed in the number one choice job position. Please ensure if you do not want to move from the position that you currently hold, that you submit a blank PAR or a PAR with an X or line through it indicating you want no further choices at this time.

Please ensure that if new jobs are created and added, that you submit a new PAR. Please ensure that you review your maintenance board regularly so that you do not miss the posting. As employees vacate positions, they may be filled by whatever PAR you have submitted last, so if ever unsure what your last choices were, just submit a new one to avoid indexed to account for changes in average wages since the year you were born. Your social security benefits are based on your earnings. There is no practice hostility on the part of the Postal Service. Let us practice hostility on the part of the Postal Service. Let us not trail the fabric of SOLIDARITY amongst us. Therefore/today let us bind as one to promote every APWU member of the Family from the junior PSE to the most Senior amongst us. Let us be mindful, of one another, let us be respectful of one another, let us help one another. Therefore, let us achieve our individual goals collectively we can and we will in SOLIDARITY.

You may not carry it on your person or in your possessions in the workplace.

You may not carry it in a postal vehicle.

You may not leave it in your vehicle if parked in a postal lot or otherwise on postal property.

You may not carry it in the field on official duty. This would include clerks who visit mailers or other customers in the course of business, clerks who take readings at other offices, clerks delivering Express Mail, clerks staffing mail transfer locations at the airport.

Those employees who do bring their pistols with them when they drive to work leave them in their cars and park off postal property, such as on public streets. Especially in the case of women, if you carry your pistol in your purse, REMEMBER to take it out before you enter the building and DO NOT park on postal property with the pistol in your vehicle. I had to caution a female postal employee on this very matter a while ago; she knew enough to take the pistol out of her purse, but did not know that leaving it in her vehicle on a postal lot was prohibited. And please, if something happens, ASK FOR A STEWARD before answering questions.
EDITORIAL:

Postal Pulse Post Office Propaganda?

I just received a postcard in the mail from the Post Office concerning the Postal Pulse Survey comparing scores from 2015 and 2016. The Postal Pulse Survey replaces the VOE, voice of the employee, a survey that was used in the past by the post office. The Postal Pulse Survey is a survey created by management that has employees fill out, with questions concerning work environment and conditions. There are twelve questions in the survey. The post office paid millions of dollars to an outside company to conduct the survey. The same survey is used by hundreds of companies around the country to track employees feelings about their company.

We, as the union, tell employees not to fill out the survey because in the past, the post office has used the results against us in contract negotiations. Well, in 2015 the results were miserable for the post office. Of all the surveys done in 2015 by the outside company, the post office results were at the bottom 1 percent of employee satisfaction and work environment.

In my opinion, in lieu of these disappointing results, and all the negative press coverage the post office has been getting lately, the post office has suddenly started a new program: The USPS Engagement Program. The post office claims they want to make positive changes in the work environment and they want the employees to get engaged to proliferate these changes. Really? We will see. Let’s face it, with all the negative press lately, the post office has to do something to deflect the negativity. They have heard this before. We will see. The Collective Bargaining Agreement states “a fair day’s work for a fair day’s pay.” We agree we get a fair day’s pay. But the workload is getting out of hand due to the conditions we face every day. We have heard this before. We will see.

The American Postal Workers Union, the Detroit District Area Local and locals all over the country are committed to working with Post Office management in a positive manner to make positive work environment changes happen. But the post office must change their old school management mentality. Look at other corporations, like Apple, Quickens Loans and other companies that scored in the upper 1 percent in the employee survey. They treat their employees with dignity and respect. They encourage, compliment the employee. They give incentives for quality employee production. The research cannot be denied, that if the employee likes working for a company, that company is going to get more production out of that employee.

So now we have the USPS Engagement Program. Well, post office and the new engagement program, GET ENGAGED! GET ENGAGED and end this hostile working environment. GET ENGAGED and end the forced overtime. GET ENGAGED and end the extra workload. GET ENGAGED and hire some people! GET ENGAGED and end the harassment. GET ENGAGED and end this madness! Our employees are falling out at an alarming rate because of the over workload, the understaffing and the overtime.

The Collective Bargaining Agreement states “a fair day’s work for a fair day’s pay.” We agree we get a fair day’s pay. But the workload is getting out of hand due to the conditions we face every day. Once again, the DDAL is committed working with management to change working conditions at the post office so those survey scores wouldn’t be so horrible. But management must step up to the plate, all propaganda set aside, to show us some positive changes are going to be made . . . NOW! Encourage us, don’t berate us. Compliment us, don’t degrade us. Build us up, don’t try to tear us down.

Is this new USPS Engagement Program really committed to providing a work friendly environment, or is this just another facet of post office propaganda . . . as we asked earlier . . . WE WILL SEE!

Okay sisters and brothers, it’s that time of year again. First I will begin with the primary elections. You must be registered 30 days prior to any election to be eligible to vote. The primary is August 2nd (so deadline to register was July 5th). I know that many do not take the time to vote in primary elections because it is a waste of time. Many that won’t take the time often do not realize that they are losing out on a chance to get those who may actually be the “best candidate elected (for the not so good ones eliminated) for the general election.

The offices up for grabs this cycle are, US Representatives in Congress, State Representatives/Senators, Michigan Supreme Court Justice, Circuit Court Justice, Appeals Court Judges, Probate and District Judges, County Offices and more. There are a lot of folks seeking office and it is up to us to seek out and elect those who will have our best interest at heart. And by our I don’t mean just Postal Workers, but ALL workers, union members, minimum age workers, the middle class, the retirees, the seniors and all who are “the least of these”. Your state and local elections are where it begins folks and if you don’t get back in on the right (or the wrong) side of this, read below, you have let off the reins on a chance to get your state and local offices in the hands of the people who will represent the middle class, the retirees, the seniors/retirees pensions, the working class, the youth, the environment and the elderly.

The fact is, Michigan chose Snyder over V. Bernero (2010) because they listened to big money interest touting the slogan “nerd”, and saying that a businessman “who knows how to CRUNCH the numbers” would be best for our state. WRONG!! We are people, not numbers, our state and local offices are not governed like that. You can just discard/charge off when it does not work! Added to that is the fact that voter turnout was only 42.9%. And then in (2014), even after the travesty of justice and trampling on our rights, democracy, and most importantly OUR VOTES, the nerd was again elected. What should it worse is that he got back in because: 1) folks did not show up at the polls, and 2) folks said and I quote “who is Mark Schauer?”, “I never even heard of him”, and the worse one, “he doesn’t look like he could...” “I Less than half of those eligible to vote showed up (a mere 41.6%). Yes, that was even lower than 2010 and was also the lowest turnout in 24 years and that is really sad folks! We must do better in this election! Once again the battle cry “THIS IS THE MOST IMPORTANT...” is the call we must heed brothers and sisters. I want to keep this article as short as possible but I also would like to just remind folks of a few of the “losses” we have suffered under this current administration. I urge you to please take the time NOW to go on line and check out the person(s), that are running in your district.

We have a golden opportunity right now to return/restore democracy to the “PEOPLE”. We cannot be lax or derelict in our duty. For those who may not know, Congresswoman Frederica Lawrence has a democratic challenger along with the Republican fighting for that 14th Congressional District Seat. In the 13th District, Congressman John Conyers has a democratic challenger (I believe there were 2 other Dems, but one was disqualified). These are just a couple of examples of what is at stake this year and the reason I ask that you do not take it lightly or continue to be apathetic about it. Please pay attention folks! Elections have consequences and we (unfortunately) are living through a lot of them right now. We here in Michigan, are THE PRIME example of what can and will go wrong when we don’t vote (or vote against) those we believe are the worst possible candidates that are running in your district.

The primaries will have our best interest at heart. The board will not have said so over the finances governing the school district. This control will still be in the hands of the state. They say that the district will only deal with the debt (keep in mind the state had control then) and the other will focus on the “NEW” DPS finances. It’s a sham folks! These are but a few of what has gone on here in our state but much of the same is happening nationwide. For the better part of these last 10 months the main focus has been on Donald Trump. The media has given him more coverage (beginning before the debates) than ANY other candidate.

The media has also given more attention to Hillary Clinton’s e-mails than any other issue going into this election cycle (just my opinion). Now that the field has narrowed (for the most part) to just these two, I hear more and more how folk will not “vote for the lesser of two evils”. I’ve heard it said that “I will not vote for HER/HIM”. Well either way that is exactly what you are doing. I have listened to (and read) the comments against Bernie, against Hillary and I must say that if you are a true Democrat (can’t speak on Replu’s) then your support is crucial for the democratic candidate. I’ve heard it said that I can’t support the party’s choice but this is so much bigger than that!

Okay I have heard some say that it is so much bigger than that! This is not just about “I”, it’s about “US”, it’s about “WE THE PEOPLE”, it’s about restoring democracy, decency and civility. We HAVE to PAY CLOSE ATTENTION!! I always ask any you get to know who is asking for your vote and WHY they want (or feel they deserve) your vote. Look into their eyes, hearts and souls. See what they are about and LISTEN to what they say (or don’t say) when you ask. I cannot tell what is in your heart or tell you WHO to vote for, that is your choice. While this article is just my opinions, I hope that somehow offers thought provoking conversations and questions with you all as well. I have spent some time with some of those seeking my vote and I hope you will do the same. This goes not only for this election (presidential year) but for ALL elections and all offices city, state, county, etc. This article may not reach you in time for the primary but if your candidate of choice does not survive the primary, I sincerely hope that you won’t sit out the general (November) election. Your vote is your vote, please don’t be silent! You can check the union office (or call me) if you would like to know who the AFL-CIO endorsed candidates are. JUST VOTE!!! PEACE & SOLIDARITY!

The Welcome Mat

The APWU-DDAL would like to give a big round of applause to the following new members. As we all know, there is strength in numbers. We appreciate and acknowledge all who make the endeavor to become unionists. We invite you to come in and play an active role in helping this union flourish!

We would also like to acknowledge those that signed the new brothers and sisters. Remember, any member can sign a new member and it’s $20 in your pocket!

Detroit Teachers Union calls Detroit’s dilapidated schools a health risk. In February, the mayor or ordered inspections. Inspectors found 152 violations of 11 schools. The problems included insect and rodent infestations, broken sinks and mold. — Source Detroit News

Danny – This is unfathomable! How can we treat our teachers and children like this. The union is fighting hard to reverse this catastrophe. Let’s get the schools the resources and the money they need to turn this around, and stop funding projects and tax breaks that benefit only the privileged and the rich.

• Twenty photographs that express the ‘love through letters’ have been chosen for a series of souvenir postcards that will be handed out to visitors at the international Venice Biennale architecture show featuring Detroit based projects. Twenty photos from different teams representing different Detroit conceptual designs will have their images turned into postcards that will be given to visitors. The teams produce conceptual designs for The Packard Plant, the Dequindre cut and Eastern Market District, West Vernon Highway, and others. GYW post office.

Danny – This love thru letters is empowering.

• In another poignant story, a writer talked about how in 1918 during WW I, her mother’s fourth grade teacher in Staten Island, NY, brought in photos of young American soldiers going to war. She asked each student to choose a soldier in the photos and send a message to them. Her mother, then 8, choose to write to a local young man names Eddie. They exchanged friendly letters. Ironically, 12 years later, they met in person through mutual friends. They married, celebrated 51 years together before he passed in 1982. They had written love letters.
